

BELL NUNNALLY'S NATHAN COX ELECTED TO BOARD OF DIRECTORS FOR DALLAS CHAMBER SYMPHONY AND PRIMOS DALLAS

March 05, 2024

Bell Nunnally Senior Associate Nathan Cox has been elected to the board of directors for two organizations, the Dallas Chamber Symphony and Primos Dallas.

The Dallas Chamber Symphony (DCS) is a nonprofit chamber orchestra founded in 2011 to provide high-quality, imaginative concerts as well as several educational and neighborhood outreach programs. Cox joins Bell Nunnally Partner Benjamin L. Riemer on the DCS board.

Primos Dallas is a nonprofit mentoring organization founded in 2018 to connect young Latinos with professionals in the Pleasant Grove/Dallas area. The group works to foster mentoring relationships and offer exposure to careers and opportunities that may not have been considered previously or considered viable options. Its mission is to "empower students and their families to tackle any challenge through mentoring and exposure to opportunities."
