

ROSS WILLIAMS AND MASON JONES ON DALLAS BUSINESS JOURNAL LOOK AT BUSINESS INTERRUPTION INSURANCE DURING COVID-19

April 08, 2020

Bell Nunnally's Ross A. Williams and Mason G. Jones authored the Dallas Business Journal article "Will my business interruption insurance cover my COVID-19-related losses? If not, what are my options?" The piece considers the question of whether businesses with business interruption insurance will be able to successfully file claims related to the COVID-19 pandemic, and, if not, what other options might be available to help recoup or defray losses. In light of great uncertainty, they suggest, "[A]s COVID-19-related business disruptions continue to accrue, businesses must keep the lines of communication open with legal counsel, insurance brokers and accountants. Forethought and careful planning and consultation are key to gathering the information needed to submit a well-presented claim."

To read the full article, please click here.

Related Practices

Litigation

Practice Area Contact

Ross Angus Williams Mason G. Jones