

TREY DELOACH, NIKKI GIBSON, ED MCQUEEN AND IRA PEREZ ON DALLAS BUSINESS JOURNAL BREAK DOWN THE CARES ACT FOR SMALL BUSINESSES

April 15, 2020

Partners Trey DeLoach, Nikki Hurst Gibson and Ed McQueen and associate Ira B. Perez authored the Dallas Business Journal article “What the $2 trillion CARES Act means for small businesses, employees when it comes to relief.” The piece explores the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act — a $2 trillion relief package aimed at alleviating some of the economic disruptions many Americans are currently facing as a result of the coronavirus pandemic. The group’s focus in the piece is relief for small businesses and their employees as set forth in Title I of the CARES Act, dubbed the Keeping American Workers Paid and Employed Act. They explore the following provisions: Paycheck Protection Program loans, Small Business Administration (SBA) Economic Injury Disaster Loans and grants and debt relief for new and existing SBA loan borrowers.
