

BELLNUNNALLY

LITIGATION

At Bell Nunnally we understand that client relationships extend beyond a single case. For more than 40 years, our litigators have aggressively represented clients across many industries, always driven to achieve their goals and protect their interests.

In every lawsuit, we strive to discover the strengths of our clients' positions and uncover and capitalize on the weaknesses of the opposition. Not all cases are destined for trial, so we offer creative solutions to disputes early and often to further our clients' objectives.

Our practice encompasses all aspects of the litigation process, from pretrial matters through trial and all levels of appeal in state and federal courts. We help clients evaluate litigation risks and develop a settlement strategy from the outset of a case when appropriate, guiding our clients through settlement discussions from a position of strength. When a reasonable settlement is not possible, we aggressively represent our clients through trial.

Who we represent

Our clients are some of the largest corporations in America, as well as local businesses, government entities and individuals. We also routinely represent clients in arbitral forums and before regulatory bodies. In addition to individual matters, our litigators serve as regional coordinating counsel for Fortune 500 companies and as de facto national counsel for clients.

Our representative experience

We have won numerous cases involving a wide variety of commercial issues and are well versed in complex litigation. Virtually no area of civil litigation is beyond our capabilities. With our clients' budgets always top of mind, we are committed to achieving cost effective solutions that protect their interests.
